

Interdisciplinarity & the Mind

11-12 May 2017

Institute of Advanced Study | Durham University

Thursday 11 May 2017

09:30 – 10:00

Registration and Refreshments served in IAS Fellow's Common Room (2nd Floor)

Session One: Concepts of the Mind

Chair: Mattia Gallotti, University of London

10:00 – 10:15

INTERDISCIPLINARITY AND THE HUMAN MIND PROJECT

Mattia Gallotti, University of London

10:20 – 11:00

Kathryn Banks, Durham University

11:00 – 11:40

Charles Fernyhough, Durham University

11:40 – 12:20

Marta Halina, Cambridge University

12:30 – 13:30

Lunch Break

Session Two: Grand Challenges

13:30 – 15:30

THE FUTURE OF RESEARCH ON THE MIND

Group workshop facilitated by Lawrence Phillips, London
School of Economics and Political Science

15:30 – 15:50

Refreshments

Session Three: Human & Animal Minds

Chair: Nicholas Saul, Durham University

15:50 – 16:30	Robert Barton , Durham University
16:30 – 17:10	Jill Cook , British Museum
17:10 – 17:50	Paul Fletcher , Cambridge University
18:00	End of first day
19:00	Dinner at Hatfield College (SCR Dining Room)

Friday 12 May 2017

Session Four: Cultural & Scientific Diversity in Concepts of the Mind

Chair: Veronica Strang, Durham University

9:00 – 9:15	INTERDISCIPLINARY RESEARCH: BRINGING MINDS TOGETHER Veronica Strang , Durham University
9:20 – 10:00	Felicity Callard , Durham University
10:00 – 10:40	Christian von Scheve , Freie Universität Berlin
10:40 – 11:20	Tom McLeish , Durham University
11:20 – 11:40	Refreshments

Session Five: What Can Interdisciplinary Exchanges of Knowledge Tell Us About The Mind?

Chair: Colin Blakemore, University of London

11:40 – 12:45	Open Roundtable
13:00 – 14:00	Lunch Break

Session Six: Where next? A Conversation on Policy & the Mind

Chair: Colin Blakemore, University of London

14:00 – 15:15

Steven Hill, HEFCE

Carl Gombrich, University College London

15:15 – 15:30

CLOSING REMARKS BY COLIN BLAKEMORE

15:30

End of Workshop